Council increases park fees, revises fence regulations

By Clint Schroeder West Kerr Current

Ingram City Council last Tuesday, June 1, established new park rental fees and made changes to the ordinance regulating fences.

"We discussed park rental rates in our workshop," said Mayor Kathy Rider.

The new fees for the Ingram City Park are a $200 deposit to rent the pavilion, restrooms and dumpsters at a rate of $150 per day. To include electricity and the kitchen, the rate is $200 per day.

Rider said the city did not have fees established for the relatively new city event park located off Old Ingram Loop.

The ordinance amending the rates was approved unanimously.

Winter storm update given at CTEC meeting

More than 50 people attended the Central Texas Electric Co-op's Kerr/Real Southern Kimble and Counties Area District meeting on Thursday, June 3, at Ingram Tom Moore High School Warrior Theater.

Before the official meeting began, CTEC presented videos to the audience offering a summary of events surrounding Winter Storm Uri which are still available to view on the CTEC website ctec.coop.

CTEC CEO Robert (Bob) Loth, III introduced Kerr County District 2 Board Member Mark Reeve and CTEC Board President Mark Hahn from Mason County.

Loth said, "Generally we have a whole bunch of directors here, but in light of the pandemic and social distancing we decided not to bring too many directors in fear of not knowing the size of the crowd and not make anyone overly worried."

Loth then opened the meeting with a video overview of 2020 culminating with the events of Winter Storm Uri that left some people in the area without power for as long as 23 days. They highlighted the increased electrical demand in 2020 due to more people at home due to Covid.

"Although the electric Coop closed their lobbies to the in-person business, our dedicated employees never missed a beat in keeping the power flowing," said Loth.

Later the video acknowledged Winter Storm Uri as "the worst storm to hit the Texas Hill Country in recorded history."

Loth continued, "Our service area took the brunt of the storm causing widespread

During this time, incoming freshmen had the opportunity to freshen up their skills to prepare for the TSI test. As we continue to transition into a P-TECH, Pathways in Technology Early College High School, students must pass the TSI test in order to enroll in some courses that award college credit while in high school. We will be conducting another week of 'Freshman Bootcamp' in August right before the 2021-2022 school year kicks off.

This summer, the IES cafeteria located at 12 Brave Run is the site for the Summer Feeding Program. Breakfast is served from 7:30 to 8 a.m. and lunch is served from 11 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday. Meals are free to all summer school students or anyone in the community, 18 years or younger.

Summer School is a great opportunity to ensure students at Ingram ISD are successful in their education. Students complete engaging activities in a smaller setting to reinforce skills that have been taught as well as getting a head start for the next grade.

As Benjamin Franklin said, "Tell me, and I forget. Teach me, and I remember.Involve me, and I learn."

Additionally, we prepare students for state testing if they did not meet expectations during the school year. Faculty and staff in the district are dedicated to preparing students for the next phase of their life after high school whether it be college, career, trade, or military. As an educator, the mantra I live by is, "Every student, every day."

ITM graduates third senior class

Three seemed to be the magic number at Warrior Stadium last Saturday for blue skies and fair weather as 33 seniors from Ingram Tom Moore High School received their diplomas as the school's third graduating class.

ITM Principal Carol Moffett called forth the graduates who received their certificates from Ingram School Board President Jim Mays.

Retiring Ingram Superintendent John Givens told the audience that the graduating seniors had "made ITM happen" and then he challenged the graduates to "keep the dream alive".

"If you work as hard in your lives from this day forward as you have at making the dream of this school come true, you will be successful," said Dr. Givens.

Senior Class President Cecil Baldwin later presented Dr. Givens with a framed needlepoint memento and told the superintendent he spoke for the entire class in wishing him well.

"We truly appreciate you," said Baldwin. "Without your dream, vision and perserverance this school would not have become a reality".

Valedictorian Cindy Dunnigan delivered a brief address in which she recalled highlights of her years at

Moon Shadow Haven holds grand opening

oon Shadow Haven is a deluxe new wedding venue in Mountain Home at 118 Creekridge Trail.

With towering cathedral ceilings and lighted alabaster bar tops, Moon Shadow shines brightly. Established in the 1930s as the Mountain Home Cottages, Moon Shadow Haven is on Johnson Creek, a 17-acre paradise in the Texas Hill Country.

The owners, Jim Adams and Dr. Jane Reed Adams hail from Houston, where Jane was a successful ob/gyn. Inspired by grand Colorado architecture, the party space is large and yet inviting. Rental fees start at $2,500 and the capacity is 250. There are eight cabins available for the wedding party. A standout feature is the Bride's Room with a wall of mirrors and salon chairs lined up for hair and makeup. Every detail has been thought of for the prefect wedding.

The West Kerr Chamber and the Hunt Garden Club were invited to the grand opening and ribbon cutting on Saturday night. The music was by the Pauline Reese Band. Enjoying the beer and wine were Laura Ann and Wes Wagner, Johnna Curle, Carolyn and Jack Clarke, Hunt ranch owner Glenn Youngkin has won the primary to be the Republican candidate for Governor of Virginia. Republicans have not won a statewide election in Virginia since 2009, a reflection of the state's changing demographics. The New York Times reports that "Mr.

Youngkin's appeal to Republicans was at least twofold: He is a political blank slate, with no record in elected office for Democrats to attack. And his private wealth — reportedly over $200 million, after he retired as co-chief executive of the Carlyle Group — will allow him to compete financially against Mr. (Terry) McAuliffe, a prolific fundraiser." Youngkin has already spent $5.5 million of his own money since entering the race in late January. As of June 1, he has raised over $15 million. He pledged to restore a state voter identification law, to replace the entire state board of education and to institute the "1776 Project," a curriculum of "patriotic education" proposed by a commission established under Trump.

Youngkin says "I will be a new kind of leader, one who brings people together around our shared values to solve problems and get things done. Another career politician isn't going to get Virginia back on the right track. That's why I stepped away from my 30year business career to serve the people of Virginia. I want to bring our Commonwealth together like never before so every person who calls Virginia home can achieve a brighter future."

The Red Clay Strays will perform at Lazy Days Canteen this Saturday night.

Red Clay Strays back at Lazy Days Canteen

Southern rock this Saturday

Touring act and new, fresh Nashville recording artists, The Red Clay Strays will return to the Lazy Days Canteen Stage this Saturday night.

"These guys have recently been picked up by a Nashvillebased agency and are making all kinds of waves in Music City," said Lazy Days Canteen owner Keith Asbury.

From the far reaches of rural south Alabama, The Red Clay Strays claim their unique sound with a humble confidence that can only come from their upbringing.

This band, on stage and off, reminds you of southern music's heyday and gives you hope that it may not have lost its way after all.

Growing up listening to gospel along with artists such as Waylon Jennings, The Eagles, and the Allman Brothers, their wide range of influences create a combined style of the country music and southern rock we've all been waiting for.

Lead singer Brandon Coleman, with vocals that bring to mind a young Elvis, is the heart of their high-energy show along with Drew Nix on rhythm guitar, Zack Rishel on lead, Andrew Bishop on bass and John Hall on drums.

LDC house band the Q-Tips will be opening the show at 8 p.m. Isidora will be serving up scrumptious Tex-Mex.

Lazy Days Canteen is located at Roddy Tree Ranch, one mile past the Ingram Dam on Hwy. 39. They serve Texas and Mexican beer and wine. LDC will open at 6:30 p.m.

For more information, call 830-367-2871. Advance tickets my be purchased at www.lazydayscanteen.com.

Playhouse 2000 Opens 'A Nice Family Gathering' this Friday

Playhouse 2000, Kerrville's Community Theater, will open the third show in its Season 2021 on Friday. Phil Olson's hilarious but warm comedy "A Nice Family Gathering" will be seen in the VK Garage Theater from June 11 through June 27.

Written by one of the most popular writers of comedy for the stage in America, "Family Gathering" has been popular in theaters across the country for several years, and may be destined for a film treatment in the coming years.

The story tells the tale of "Carl Lundeen," the son of a mostly absent father who – the playwright says – "loved his wife so much he almost told her."

Carl senior died unexpectedly about 10 months before our play begins, but he hasn't been completely absent. He has appeared to Carl to ask for his help in ensuring "Mom" knows that he truly did love her, so that he can begin his eternal rest.

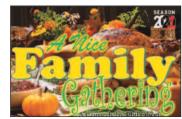

The fact that "Mom" has invited a date to the family's annual Thanksgiving celebration complicates things even more.

"Carl" is played by Victor Salinas, who is making his first P2K appearance since "Schoolhouse Rock" in 2011. He was — and is — scheduled to be the voice of "Audrey II" in "Little Shop of Horrors" which was postponed from Spring 2020 to Fall of 2021.

From left, Michele Vanfossen as "Mom," Barry Wall as "Dad" and Victor Salinas as "Carl" appear in a scene from the Playhouse 2000 production of the comedy "A Nice Family Gathering," which opens in the VK Garage Theater this Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The role of "Dad" is filled by Barry Wall, who was last seen as the creepy dentist in "Women in Jeopardy." "Mom" is played by Michele Vanfossen and her date, portrayed by Sarah Salinas. Rounding out the cast is nextdoor neighbor "Mrs. Enquist" who is never actually seen, but is voiced by Cindy Vennes.

"A Nice Family Gathering" will be presented in the VK Garage Theater, beginning Friday, June 11, and running through Sunday, June 27, with performances on Fridays and Saturdays at 7:30, and Matinees on June 20 and 27 at 2:30. All tickets are priced at $22.

This is the first production at the VK Garage that will offer 100 percent capacity seating since March 2020. Face coverings are encouraged but not required.

Tickets can be purchased online at www.CaillouxPerformingArts .com; at The Cailloux Theater Box Office, in person from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday through Friday, or 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays; or by phone at any time by leaving a detailed message at (830) 896-9393.

The VK Garage Theater is located at 305 Washington St. in downtown Kerrville, and is part of the Kathleen C. Cailloux City Center for the Performing Arts, managed, on behalf of the City of Kerrville, by Playhouse 2000, Inc.

Robert Earl Keen's 4th on the River is on

Free concert in Louise Hays Park

Covid-19 put a damper on last year's celebration, but get ready to "let 'er rip" in grand style on Independence Day weekend with a full day of free music on Sunday, July 4, at Robert Earl Keen's 4th on the River at Louise Hays Park, culminating in the traditional fireworks display.

This will be the sixth year that Robert Earl Keen has hosted his free 4th on the River event, including last year when he, his band and special guests graciously livestreamed a Virtual Fourth on the River from his Snake Barn Movie Ranch Studio just outside of Medina, Texas.

Keen has made many meaningful contributions in both this community, notably his support for the Hill Country Youth Orchestra, and in the music industry nationwide.

As more projects and opportunities come down the pike, and as Keen starts to once again tour extensively, one thing remains the same: Robert Earl Keen loves what Rider said he had been difficult with city staff as well. She showed a thick file of citations Horton received in just three years, noting that he already owed more than $1,000 in fines.

She tried to resolve a question about his license plate but Horton said that as a "sovereign" citizen he did not have to abide by local laws.

Regarding amending zoning rules, Rider said that the city has hired a new code enforcement officer, Garin Mitchell.

There have been complaints in areas where trash has accumulated, buildings are sitting idly with major violations, and the city has no ability to enforce.

"We have discussed going to a zoning ordinance to encompass setbacks, how people can use their property. We can't put a bar in a school zone or residential area. We can have mixed use areas." Rider said the city attorney provided guidance with ordinances from other places comparable; 78 pages — pretty standard, with definitions, etc. The major complaints about the city are traffic and trash, and the city is trying to take progressive steps. However, they do not want drop a hammer on to enforcement, but will work with people who have trouble complying or cleaning up. The topic will be discussed again put with public hearings on Tuesday meetings, along with some bigger items, hoping that the public will listen. As for the USDA wastewater Project Phase III update, Rider noted that according to the most recent information, the cost of the project will increase by about $300,000.

Some areas they considered were Clark and College streets, Hilltop houses and Claudette Street. Some houses were not there when Phase III was proposed, and another on 7th was overlooked, and there was a building that became a residence, Rider noted.

Alternates I, II and III would be prioritized in the near future should the USDA funds not be granted.

Regarding the 2021-2022 proposed budget, it is still early in process, which Rider said was "doing OK."

Keen will be joined at the event by Cody Canada & The Departed, Kylie Frey, and Jesse Daniel.

Cody Canada returns after a recent sold out show at Arcadia Live, this time with his band, The Departed. A road warrior and prolific songwriter, Canada was the front man of Cross Canadian Ragweed, a wildly influential band that dominated the Red Dirt music scene for more than a decade, selling millions of albums and playing for huge audiences across the U.S.

Canada formed The Departed in 2011, and with them brews up a sound that's inspired by outlaw country icons of the '70s and rock bands of the '90s.

Also returning to Kerrville is Nashville recording artist Kylie Frey, who wowed the Arcadia Live audience in March. Born and raised as country as it gets, Frey is a third-generation rodeo girl and Louisiana state goattying champion.

After just four years of dedicated work, Frey has already notched four Number Ones on Report - "Rodeo Man," "Too Bad" (with Randy Rogers), "One Night In Tulsa" and "Spur of the Moment" – with the latter enshrined as the fastest-rising Number One by a female artist in chart history.

Kicking off the Fourth on the River event will be Jesse Daniel, who opened the recent sold-out Charley Crockett show at Arcadia Live. His songs mix the twang of classic country with greasy, roadhouse-worthy muscle.

"I called it with Sturgill (Simpson), I called it with Tyler (Childers), this dude's the next one to blow up," said Shooter Jennings.

Daniel's debut album, "Rollin' On," has been described as "a country record for the 2020s, with one boot planted in the same sonic territory that Buck Owens and Merle Haggard once occupied, and the other pointed in a direction that's entirely Daniel's own."

In addition to the free Sunday concert, The Arcadia Live is privileged to host the Grammy Award-winning band Reckless Kelly for its first-the Texas Regional Radio ever appearance in Kerrville on Saturday, July 3. Led by brothers Cody and Willy Braun, the band just released two new albums - American Jackpot and American Girls. The Austin Chronicle says of the albums, "Like a Westernrooted Drive-By Truckers or Red Dirt Springsteen, Reckless Kelly explores that sense of America with a brazen embrace of both pride and critique, hard truths reckoned with head-on, but with stubborn and enduring independence."

> Tickets for Reckless Kelly go on sale to the public on Friday, May 21, at www.thearcadialive.org.

> Arcadia Live, Inc. is a nonprofit organization that owns and operates the Arcadia Live theater and, in conjunction with Robert Earl Keen and the City of Kerrville, organizes Robert Earl Keen's Fourth on the River.

> Sponsors of this year's July 4 event will be treated to a sponsor-only concert on July 2 at Arcadia Live. If interested in becoming a July 4 sponsor, please reach out to Anne (info@thearcadialive.org).

KCSO arrests three in Ingram on meth charges charge

On Wednesday, June 2, Kerr County Sheriff's Office Narcotics with the assistance of KCSO deputies and KCSO Criminal Investigations Divison arrested three individuals in Ingram for drug possession and delivery.

KCSO Narcotics investigators recently received information that drugs were being used and sold in the 100 block of 3rd Street in Ingram and proceeded to secure and execute a search warrant.

In the warrant service, KCSO Narcotics seized approximately 19 grams of methamphetamine in total, along with marijuana, drug paraphernalia, packaging, digital scales and cell phones. KCSO also seized items that Deliver. She is currently being held on $50,000 bond at the Kerr County Jail.

Morris and Ivy were together found to be in possession of 14.2 grams of methamphetamine.

Chanda Chellew Muller, three suspects admitted to the sale of methamphetamine to other individuals. Two additional individuals at the property, William Curtis Roberts and Halley Anne Mills, may face charges for possession and/or delivery of controlled substances. As with all criminal cases, charges may be added or modified prior to trial. Defendants are presumed innocent until proven guilty. "Our investigators continue to take daily action against drug dealers in Kerr County," said Sheriff Larry Leitha. "We are pleased to secure a felony fugitive and remove this link in the drug supply chain. We will continue our campaign against drugs and the property crimes that surround them."

Another matter was speed bumps, which Rider said some neighbors have requested. Speed bumps are legal and the city council would like to put them on many residential roads where drivers speed.

Some locations included in front of the school, on College Street, and at Ingram Loop. However, Rider said they can't put them on Hwy. 27, or on dead-end streets.

Council member Rocky Hawkins said that the city could make their own speed bumps which would save them money. There would be a source of funding.

"I have been hoarding our traffic funds for a long time," Rider noted, which she said could also be used for larger projects.

Hawkins proposed a vote on speed bumps, which the council approved unanimously.

In a related topic, Rider added, "Our engineer said we could do a large scale road reconstruction project. We're always behind the 8-ball, like we did with the sewer, but we could do the worst streets all at once instead of just a few every year."

As for lower speed limits, council agreed to look at speed ordinances, and possibly lower local speeds from 30 to 25 miles per hour. In advance of such measures, Rider said the council would review ordinances, publicize their changes and let the public speak at meetings.

They could put stickers with the new speeds on existing speed limit signs, which would be cheaper. The council plans to hold a Monday workshop or a Tuesday meeting to let people know it's coming.

44, of Ingram, also at the property during the warrant service, was found in possession of less than a gram of methamphetamine. Muller was charged with Possession of a Controlled Substance PG1<1G. Bond for Muller has not been set.

While on the property, investigators also discovered three catalytic converters in the bed of a pickup truck. Investigators are looking into a possible connection to area catalytic converter thefts.

During the investigation, all required each structural and decorative member of a fence ... "be compatible in size, material and appearance of the remained fence."

The amended ordinance passed unanimously.

Council also addressed questions about the wastewater rate increase from resident Susie Compton.

Compton had appeared at the previous meeting in the citizens forum, during which council members cannot respond to issues raised.

She was asked to attend the next workshop, which, however, was canceled because of the lack of a quorum.

Rider and council members explained the reasons for the rate increase, which have been presented publicly on several occasions.

Rider said the City of Kerrville is increasing the rates charged the City of Ingram to treat wastewater. She said without the increase, the city would be paying the increased rates out of the general fund, instead of out of wastewater revenues.

In the June 1 visitors forum, resident Shelly

Kasandra Marbach

Giorgis said there is a speeding problem on Cypress Falls Drive. She said some drivers are traveling 50-60 mph on the street, where there are children.

She asked council members to consider adding speed bumps to slow down the traffic.

Council cannot respond to matters in the visitors forum. but Rider invited her to Monday's workshop meeting where the issue could be discussed. Ingram Police Chief Carol Twiss also offered asssistance to curb speeders.

Deadheading flowers yields more blooms e've never has this much rain this late into the year. If you find a really quiet place outside, you can hear the grass growing. Now is a good time to do some cleaning up and some rejuvenating of our beds.

High on the "cleaning up" list for this time of year is deadheading all the perennials to supercharge some into another flowering period, to spread seeds of others, and to generally make the rest prettier plants.

This applies to your roses for starters. You have a good chance of getting a second blooming period from those varieties that are single bloomers. The repeat bloomers will "repeat" faster if you'll cut the dead flowers off. Besides, the plants look raggedy with dead flowers all over.

Your salvias, coneflowers, gaillardias, daylilies, coreopsis, daisies, and other like plants will benefit from your chopping off their dead blooms.

In the case of salvias, you might just as well trim the whole plant back by about a third to spur new growth.

The best way to accomplish deadheading is to cut flower stems back to the first set of leaves, or in the case of daylilies and such back to the clump itself.

Many of the larkspurs, poppies, bluebonnets, antler horns and columbines (and probably some others that I can't think of) are in the throes of going to seed. Now is a great time to catch the seeds and scatter them into some new places where you want color next spring.

Now, rake up all the scattered clippings and put them in your compost or scatter them where you want the seeds to germinate, if they have gone to seed. I toss mine down my side hill try-things growing in this random area.

Plant of the Week:

Beach Vitex (Vitex rotundaflora) is one of those drought-loving, fresh-looking, deer-resistant, beautiful sprawling plants that fill up an area. Though they are deciduous, they cascade over a retaining wall or down a hill. They have a strong, lavender scent and nice, bluish lavender flower. The foliage is a blue grey color that contrasts well with other greenery. This plant responds well to pruning and grows dense enough to retard weeds under its foliage. It needs plenty of room to sprawl. A single plant will cover an area of 10 to 20 feet square, and it will grow rapidly and just keep getting thicker and thicker.

Chores for this week:

— Plant pumpkins for Halloween.

— Mow in the early morning or late afternoon, and keep the blade high!

— Watch for tentworms on pecans and treat with trichogramma wasps or BT.

We encourage your questions, comments, or your own "Personal Plant of the Week" by writing David at In this old Victrola. It brings back such wonderful memories of my childhood. These were made around 1910-1920s and were originally called talking machines.

This one actually works and has some records I bought and some that belong to my mother. The sound of those old record players is something you just have to hear!

The needle is big and thick and so are the records. As a kid we spent hours winding the player up just to hear a song. The voices are reminiscent of the golden age of movies where many were silent with a player piano for background. The music would crescendo as the plot would thicken! Explore Texas

A little history lesson ... by 1917 Victrola made over half a million of these per year and by the 1920s most people had one in their home.

My favorite ad of those first players were with the dog listening to "His Master's Voice".

Our player is big and bulky and takes up a corner of the living room. It's more nostalgic than functional.

Old Victrola brings back memories

e were on our deck watching it rain. But our dogs seemed highly interested in the empty collapsible trash bin we put pruned branches in. Vicky said it might be a cotton rat as she tipped it over.

Our smaller dog darted in, snapped at something unseen, and dashed out, heading to the doggie door, and inside.

"Something's in his mouth!" I yelled as he shot past me. Vicky accelerated into hot pursuit. I grabbed the trash picker-upper that we handle dead critters with and followed closely. I heard her yell "Drop It!" several times from inside.

If you had just nabbed a wild thing, wouldn't you have wanted to eat it on the living room rug, too? Ours have carted in dead rats, squirrels, a dove and an owl. Then Vicky yelled, "It's a bat!" And she didn't mean a Woods, Waters & Wildlife barehanded. Get them tested. And don't demonize bats. Their bad reputation overshadows the good they perform. Foremost, they eat kazillions of mosquitoes every night! Each bat consumes roughly 1,200, nightly. Some are said to gobble close to 3,000! As much rain as we've had in recent weeks, we're expecting a monumental mosquito infestation! Texas hosts 32 species of bats. Most common is the Mexican Free-tailed bat. Its warned. She carefully held tripled-plastic bags open as I released the trash grabber handles and bagged the bat. The Internet said don't freeze the specimen. Next morning, I took it to the Department of State Health Services Lab.

A nice lady called me 24hours later. The test was negative. Our dogs' vaccinations are always kept current. But we had been worried after Ruger carried the bat in his mouth. All is well, though, following the negative report.

Bats carry rabies — an insidious disease. But like the fear of blood-sucking vampire bats from old horror movies, the fear is overblown. Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Jonah Evans, termed bat-born rabies as "uncommon." He referred me to TPWD's bat information. Accordingly, less than one-percent contract rabies. It does still occur, however. Keep your guard up. Don't handle live bats they can bite — or dead bats, main enemies are white-nose syndrome, rabies, hitting vehicles, wind turbine blades, and cold weather. Significant numbers migrate to Mexico each winter, but not all. Many remaining here — and others returning early this year died from severe cold in February.

Bats also greatly benefit agriculture and homeowners through pollinating crops and gardens. Agricultural estimates are in the billions. Bat droppings, known as guano, are commercially gathered, too — giving mosquitoes a purpose for existing ... I guess.

Bats retreat from daylight in caves, rocks, old buildings, bridges, mines and trees. They've even become tourist attractions. Bracken Cave is the largest bat colony in the world, hosting 15-20 million bats each summer. Located in southern Comal County near San Antonio, it is owned by sized dog's mouth; and eats muchos mosquitoes.

Representatives from both KPUB and AACOG will be present at the event to promote energy efficiency, home energy saving tips and funding available through AACOG's Weatherization Assistance Program.

AACOG's program is designed to help low-income people, particularly the elderly and handicapped, overcome the high cost of energy by installing energy conservation measures at no cost to the applicant. AACOG's program is 100 percent free for those that income qualify and can be available to both renters and home owners. Although AACOG's WAP program does not address major home repairs, it can help lower the amount of energy used in a home by enhancing the structure's thermal boundary.

Additionally, KPUB will be providing complimentary

However, our employees along with the help from neighboring electric utility workers rebuilt the damaged parts of our system in just two weeks."

Also in the video, Loth mentioned the Co-op opened again on May 1 and recognized the new advanced metering system "to provide the Co-op with accurate and timely meter readings using high speed two-way communications with all meters and other endpoint devices.

The new system has the ability to send more information more often and to also send outage notifications which will help us to manage, find and restore power faster. ... Our SmartHub app is a powerful two-way communication tool for members. This app can be used to report and monitor an outage for your location and can also be used to pay your monthly electric bill and monitor your usage.

"SmartHub is one of the tools we use to directly communicate with our members. Once signed up, members will receive emails and can choose to receive text messages and push notifications regarding planned power outages, restored outages and any type of on-demand messages."

Reeve said, "One of the reasons for meter replacement is that the current meters aren't made anymore. There are so many advantages to the new meters, such as knowing who is out of power immediately. Also it will save our members a lot of money. For example, when someone ends their service, no longer will someone have to physically drive out to disconnect the power. I don't see any adverse effects from the new meters, but people can choose to opt out.'

Loth said smart meter installation would begin in Kerr County later this month. Members will be notified via the SmartHub app or a green card mailed to members.

He also acknowledged that reduced again in early 2022." Reeve, who has witnessed his share of disasters as a volunteer with Texas Baptist Men disaster relief, affirmed, "Some Co-ops around Texas are having to charge their members an extra $20 or $30 a month for the next 20 or 30 years due to Winter Storm Uri. We could have been devastated (financially) but were not. We're one of the few in Texas that can say that."

Also mentioned was CTEC's commitment to new energy technologies and their commitment to safety for their 140 employees and 6,000 miles of transmission lines they manage.

Loth confirmed the Hunt to Harper transmission line route, also called the LCRA Mountain Home Transmission Line, has been approved.

He said work will start in the last quarter of 2021 with a target completion date of June or July 1, 2022. Currently, the approximately 30-mile line runs from Harper to Garven Store.

He acknowledged that the existence of the new line, with the placement of a new substation near Thrill Hill Road off FM 479, would have potentially cut the distance in half for repairs after Uri. "The way you work these storms, you start at the station; and you work out. It would have helped significantly."

Loth accepted questions from the audience acknowledging that some of the challenges with Uri dealt with member communication issues; and steps are in the works, including use of the SmartHub app, to improve communication.

After the meeting, Reeve clarified, "CTEC has 23 manned telephones lines, and in January received 500 calls compared to 23,000 calls during the storm."

He encourages CTEC members to go to the app store and upload the free SmartHub utility app to make it as easy as possible to communicate, especially in times of emergency. Information also is available on their PUC (handpicked by the gov-Facebook page. They plan to them a big thank you."

Loth admitted they had no control about the rolling blackouts ERCOT initiated.

"That was frustrating for employees. We would get a call and send a truck to fix, but an hour later they would be back on because we did not really have an outage. We were kind of chasing our tails for those two days during the rolling outages."

Loth said some of these challenges were supposed to be fixed by the Texas Legislature after the 2011 ice storm.

The crisis was foreshadowed in a 2011 report by federal regulators who predicted that the Texas power grid was at risk if certain weather conditions, such as Winter Storm Uri, occurred.

ERCOT's mismanagement during Uri was subsequently questioned by state and federal authorities, resulting in the resignation of five ERCOT members all residing outside of Texas.

ERCOT directors voted to fire CEO Bill Magness, and two of the three Public Utility Commission (PUC) members resigned.

The Texas power grid, which operates independently from the rest of the nation, was reportedly seconds or minutes away from complete failure. At least 151 people were killed directly or indirectly from the storm, and damages from the blackouts were estimated at $195 billion.

Steps are being taken to prevent another disaster. Reeve explained after the meeting, "The Texas Legislature just passed Senate Bill 2. Now you have to be a Texas resident to serve on the ERCOT board. Members have to be independent and cannot be affiliated with the electric industry.

"Previously the ERCOT board was comprised of outof-state experts; now we will have in-state non-expert members picked by the Senate, House and a consulting firm. The co-ops have no say with ERCOT. Now, the ernor) will have to approve all the actions of the ERCOT board. Essentially, ERCOT has lost their power. The PUC can overrule any decision they don't agree with."

> Interestingly, they discovered that the lines that ran north and south did not fall as much as the lines running east and west probably due to the wind direction.

"Our outside crew with probably 3,000 years of experience would not have been able to predict that."

The meeting ended with door prize drawings for cooler bags and the announcement that the CTEC Annual Meeting will be held Aug. 17 at 7 p.m. at Fredericksburg High School.

He said, "Our current power contracts protected us from price volatility in the ERCOT market. Your board of directors are currently discussing decreasing your power costs. This change will likely take effect sometime this summer. Also due to cost savings in future contracts your Co-op has signed with other power producers, it is likely your costs will be

Also asked was if CTEC can get electricity off the KPUB lines. Loth explained, "No, we don't get electricity off their lines. In one instance, we share a substation with KPUB. Basically our power comes from different suppliers. We both left LCRA in 2012 and are buying power from different sources."

CTEC is buying power from CPS through the end of the year. He further explained how KPUB assist-
