When people talk about Carl Morck, one of the first things mentioned is how much he worked to improve Green River. Morck died at Memorial Hospital of Sweetwater County May 30 at the age of 81. He was a former member of the Green River City Council and served on numerous board and committees, including the Greenbelt Task Force, Sweetwater County Museum Foundation, Green River Historic Preservation Commission and Sweetwater County Recreation Board.

“I grew up down the street from Carl and he was friends with my dad,” Brie Blasi, director of the Sweetwater County Historical Museum said. “When I first moved back here, Carl was one of the first people who came by the museum to say ‘hi’ and reminisce about the neighborhood when I was a kid.”

Blasi said he was a good friend to the museum and was a descendant of some of the earliest and historically-important settlers in Sweetwater County, the Gaensslen family, the Egg family and Tom Whitmore, the namesake for the city’s American Legion post.

“I think this was a big part of who he was because he really loved Green River and he felt a deep connection here,” Blasi said. “He was a truly kind and caring man who was always willing to help, volunteer, and just be involved in the community.”

John Freeman, a founder of the Greenbelt Task Force, also noted Morck’s willingness to volunteer.

Attempt at 2020 rodeo made

High School rodeo will not be in Wyo.

By DAVID MARTIN
Publisher

Weeks after announcing it would limit the Sweetwater County Fair to 4-H and FFA events and the cancellation of the Red Desert Roundup Rodeo, the Sweetwater County Events Complex announced it was seeking the 2020 National High School Finals Rodeo.

Ultimately, the rodeo committee decided to host the event in Guthrie, Okla.

“We are thankful that the National High School Finals Rodeo has found a home for 2020. We appreciate the positive feedback from the community and wish we had better financial news,” Larry Lloyd, executive director of the events complex, said in a release Friday.

Lena Warren, the marketing and event coordinator for the complex, said more than 40 were cancelled due to the coronavirus pandemic, costing the complex approximately $1.1 million in revenue. This decline has caused the complex to struggle financially, forcing Lloyd to seek a loan from the Sweetwater County commissioners to help float the organization until its next tax distribution.

The rodeo was originally planned to take place in Lincoln, Neb., July 19-25, but was cancelled due to the state’s health restrictions.

According to the Gillette News-Record, representatives of the rodeo association contacted the Cam-Plex in Gillette to host the rodeo. Shortly after the News-Record published its article about the request, the Sweetwater County Events Complex announced it was also trying to secure the rodeo.

Warren said the complex would have worked with local and state health departments to ensure the rodeo would adhere to health guidelines. According to the News-Record, the NHSFR Association was circulating a plan it intended to follow regarding hosting its event and ensuring the safety of its participants.

“The Sweetwater Events Complex is a driving force that stimulates our economy year-round. Each event plays a key role in fostering tourism and economic development and the National High School Finals Rodeo is a perfect example of this,” Lloyd said in the initial announcement.

While the complex has lost revenue from the cancelled summer events, those losses also impact local municipalities due to the loss of sales tax associated with those cancellations. The events complex hosted the rodeo in 2018 and 2019.

Green River approves dog park

By DAVID MARTIN
Publisher

Green River’s dogs will have a place to play after the Green River City Council approved a request to build a dog park last week.

The park was originally proposed by Green River High School’s National Honors Society and will be placed at 80 East Teton Blvd., next to the city’s animal control facility.

“I’m really excited to see a dog park go in because I’ve been to the dog park in Rock Springs and it just looks like a load of fun for the dogs,” Councilwoman Lisa Maes said.

Brad Raney, director of the city’s parks and recreation department, said the maintenance would go to his department, but said the rules and other regulations would likely be set by a volunteer committee, similar to how the city’s horse corrals are managed.

“It’s a big deal for travelers to have a dog park that you can ... stop and let your dog get some exercise.”
~ Pete Rust
Mayor of Green River

Victoria Hemphill, the NHS advisor at GRHS, said the group originally suggested the park to city representatives three years ago. After several meetings and fundraisers, a public hearing last year and a planning and zoning meeting, she said they were finally able ask the Council to consider building the park.

Roryanne Ratliff, president of NHS during the 2020 school year, said the group wanted to create a lasting gift to the community.

They decided to name the park after Mike Brown, who Ratliff said stepped up and helped the group move the park project forward.

“I’m just really excited about this,” Mayor Pete Rust said. “It’s a big deal for travelers to have a dog park that you can ... stop and let your dog get some exercise.”

The park was approved by a unanimous vote.

Annual cleanup starts Monday

By DAVID MARTIN
Publisher

Residents are encouraged to help beautify the city during the annual City-Wide Cleanup Week starting Monday.

Residents can register and pick up supplies and choose an area to clean during this week at the Green River Visitor’s Center. Volunteers can also register through the Green River Chamber of Commerce’s website. The main areas volunteers will focus on are the city’s business corridors, as well as the areas around parks and schools within Green River. Throughout next week, dumpsters will be placed throughout the city to collect the trash volunteers pick up.

Shredding bins will also be available at the visitor’s center starting Monday. The bins are available on a first-come, first-served basis in case the bins fill up.

Gregg Vanderpool, a spokesperson for the Green River Chamber of Commerce, said the format is differing this year to accommodate for social distancing guidelines.

Originally, the event would take place on a Saturday with volunteers spread throughout the city. Now, they can sign up and clean up their area at the time most convenient to them throughout the week.

Vanderpool also said the sign-up period has had a great response, with six people registering Monday.

Woman pleads guilty to using dispatch funds for own use

ROCK SPRINGS (Wyoming News Exchange) — Laura Etienne pleaded guilty Thursday morning to using funds from the Sweetwater County Combined Communications Dispatch Center to buy nearly $3,000 worth of personal items between 2016 and 2018.

She and her husband Robin Etienne, former director of the Combined Communications Dispatch Center, were both arrested in January 2020 and charged with felony and misdemeanor counts related to misusing an Amazon Prime account set up for the center and making nearly $7,000 in combined unauthorized purchases. The couple currently lives in Utah. Laura Etienne originally pleaded not guilty to the felony theft charge at her arraignment in Sweetwater County District Court early in March. Her change of plea Thursday morning in District Court was part of an agreement with the state of Wyoming.

Judge Richard Lavery accepted Laura Etienne's guilty plea at Thursday's video hearing. She will be sentenced following completion of a pre-sentence investigation. The plea agreement recommendation is a two- to four-year suspended sentence at the Wyoming Women's Center, three years of supervised probation, and restitution in the amount of $2,955.16 plus court fees. Once restitution is fully paid, probation would be modified to unsupervised. The restitution amount is Laura Etienne's portion of the unauthorized charges.

Acknowledging that she had no authority to use the credit card, Laura Etienne told the court she had no reasonable explanation for having done so. She said the credit card was saved on the family's Amazon account, and she would select it at times when making personal purchases.

Morck 'showed up and helped'

From A1
"He always showed up and helped, believing (the Greenbelt) was a benefit to Green River's future," Freeman said.

Kristine Lessard, a longtime employee of the city's parks and recreation department, described him as a walking wealth of knowledge who played an important part of any committee he was a part of. Lessard said he was someone who generally didn't speak unless he had something to say.

Amongst many other positions he held throughout his life, Morck worked at the Green River Recreation Center. Sherry Schumacher, a recreation programs supervisor at the center, worked with him for six years. She said Morck was fun to work with and was well-respected amongst other employees, with his honesty being a key factor in why people respected him.

"He was genuine. There was nothing phony about Carl Morck," she said.

Mayor Pete Rust said he would work out at the same time as Morck, specifically speaking about Morck's ability with the speed bag.

Rust said Morck was a good friend and supporter to his mayoral campaigns.

Rust said one of the aspects that stands out to him the most is how much Morck worked for the community and the diverse number of groups he was a part of.

"Carl was the epitome of being in local government to help your community," Rust said. "Nobody did it better."

More polling places added

Staff Report

The Sweetwater County Clerk's Office is adding two more polling places to address concerns about voting in the county's outlying communities.

One polling location will be added in Farson while the other will be added in Wamsutter.

Initially, the clerk's office limited the number of locations to seven within Green River and Rock Springs after the Wyoming Secretary of State's Office requested counties reduce the number of polling places to seven.

According to a press release from the Sweetwater County Clerk's Office, the initial directive was influenced by fears of spreading COVID-19 amongst voters.

Curbside voting will be available during the elections at the Sweetwater County Courthouse.

Residents are also able to vote using an absentee ballot, which can either be mailed or dropped off, or make use of an early vote center at the county courthouse starting July 13 until Aug. 17, from 8:30 a.m., to 4 p.m.

Our view: Be careful around the river

Despite a few days of cold, spring-like weather in the last few days, summer is quickly approaching in Green River. With that, summer activities on the river itself are becoming an attractive past time as well. While we're in favor of a fun afternoon in the river, it's also the time of year everyone should be careful around it.

June typically means more spring runoff flowing unto the Fontenelle Reservoir, which also means releases from the dam will increase. In fact, increased releases started Monday, with the dam increasing its release from 1,780 cubic feet per second (cfs) to 3,180 cfs as of this publication.

This means the river is flowing faster and is deeper than it was last week.

The Green River's emergency services have already responded to reports of people being swept downstream and while those incidents ended in the best way possible, the wrong combination of safety equipment, swimmer ability and increased flows from the dam could end in tragedy. Thankfully, it's a tragedy the community hasn't experienced in some time, but the possibility is always there.

We're not advocating for complete avoidance of the river. There are still a number of activities to enjoy despite the increased flows.

We're urging caution and careful planning to those who decide to enjoy what the Green River has to offer. The last thing anyone wants, us included, is to experience a tragic day stemming from an incident at the river.

With that in mind, please be safe around the river.

Lawmakers should pass loan forgiveness

Dear Editor,

Millions of Americans are concerned about the continued impact the coronavirus pandemic will have on our economy.

As a result of the pandemic, hospitals and frontline workers nationwide are at the forefront of this fight both from a healthcare perspective and from an economic perspective. Memorial Hospital of Sweetwater County is no exception.

Congress approved $175 billion in emergency provider grants, but not enough to prevent a deepening crisis. Hospitals alone will lose more than $200 billion through June, according to the American Hospital Association. Continued summer losses will continue into fall/winter as COVID-19 returns with the flu season.

Congress has the opportunity to avert a healthcare crisis this fall by forgiving the $100 billion federal COVID-19 loans that providers accessed in April. The federal CARES Act assured providers COVID-19 costs can be reimbursed, including lost revenue. Providers will spend loan dollars only on pandemic costs. Without forgiveness, loan repayment starts in September for the $100 billion. Memorial Hospital of Sweetwater County's loan allocation of $7.4 million is included. Loan forgiveness will support our providers and staff on the frontlines, and keep our doors open, which is vital for our community. Please help the frontlines by telling your U.S. Representatives and Senators to pass loan forgiveness now.

Simply put, loan forgiveness for our hospital, and others across the nation, will ensure that quality care continues in our community.

Our frontline heroes need Congress to act and pass legislation to forgive the loans to hospitals.

CEO, Memorial Hospital of Sweetwater County

GRPD shows kindness to resident

Dear Editor:

Have you ever been afraid because of the color of your skin? Have you ever been afraid based on ethnicity and even religious beliefs? I spent all morning visiting with a young man with an ethnic descent and we discussed an environment that I was aloof to.

This young man has experienced difficulties due to his ethnical descent and shared experiences that caused me discomfort and awe. This even in our own county. This is a prerequisite to what I have to offer.

I received a phone call from San Antonio, Texas. I do not know anyone there and have never been there, though the message stated that there is a warrant for my arrest.

Naturally, understanding that I have not done anything wrong, nor have I been to Texas, nor have I encouraged anything illegally that caused me to think if I had done anything wrong. That being said, I was curious as to why there would be a warrant for my arrest.

So, I blew it off, however, my wife felt like it should be reported. So, she called the police department to report the incident in an effort to make sure or clear my name, or just find information. This is where the story begins. After calling the Green River Police Department, I shared this story and an officer was dispatched immediately.

In about 10 minutes, there was a knock on the door, and it was an officer from the Green River Police Department. He told us his name though I cannot remember with all that has been presented publicly, it is hard pressed to trust our public representatives.

He was kind and we invited him in. With his training and through protocol, he expressed true value and leadership in his endeavor to answer and follow protocol. We asked him to sit down, he said: "Thank you, but no."

He stood by cautionary and a value that I would expect and encourage in those that have dedicated themselves to uphold the law.

Our question was simple: "Am I a villain? Do I have a warrant? Has somebody done something in my name that I need to know about?" This comes from an awareness of identity theft and how it can mess up your whole life. This did encourage our response to get the police involved.

Back to the story, a young police officer knocked on our door, courageous, and ready for what he might encounter.

The Staycationer's Guide: Driving the wild horse loop

Flaming Gorge Days is cancelled. Mansface Mountain Music Festival is cancelled. Sweetwater County Fair, with the exception of 4-H and FFA events, is also cancelled.

It's understandable that people are wanting to get out of their homes as the summer months start and, also understandably, might be wondering what they can do as almost every major summer event in the county has been cancelled.

We're here to help. There are countless excursions and adventures waiting for people just outside of town. Over the next several weeks, we will highlight some of these outdoor excursions.

Some of Sweetwater County's adventures can be enjoyed in just a few hours. One of these treks is along the Wild Horse Loop Tour. The loop is a 24-mile tour along the top of White Mountain, most easily accessed from Green River through Wild Horse Canyon, past the Hampton Inn.

People undertaking this adventure are treated to some of the most breathtaking scenery Sweetwater County has to offer, some of it not even a mile into the journey. Traveling through Wild Horse Canyon offers an opportunity to view some of the large rock formations the area is known for, with the towering structures visible from either side of the road. Upon climbing to the top of the hill, the scenery changes from rocky terrain to the vast expanses and open vistas of the high-altitude desert. Along the left side of the vehicle, Pilot Butte can almost always be seen throughout the duration of journey, while the right side of the road provides an excellent vantage points to view both Green River and Rock Springs, as well as tremendous portions of the Southwestern Wyoming landscape.

Along the route, interpretive signs inform visitors of local landmarks and the geologic history of the area, shedding light on how Lake Gosuite formed the landscape we call home. The route also provide an excellent opportunity to see the county's flora and fauna, with many species of birds, flowers and plants easily viewable from a vehicle.

Of course, horses are the main feature as the loop gets its name from the herds living throughout the area. They can sometimes be seen feeding close to the road or walking along it.

Photographers can have a field day along the loop tour, especially during the golden hour in the mornings and evenings where softer sunlight highlights landscape. Portions of the area also makes for a great backdrop for DIY photographers planning graduation or family photos in front of Pilot Butte or the landscape.

While much of the route leading to Rock Springs is a mixture of dirt and gravel, the portions near the entrance at 14-Mile Hill are rutted and in need of repair. While a passenger car could navigate the route, drivers are cautioned to slow down and drive carefully to avoid, at very least, jostling the contents of their vehicle.

Desert dumping is a depressing act

By DAVID MARTIN
Publisher

While driving along the Wild Horse Loop Tour recently, I saw something that instantly made my blood boil.

A car was left abandoned at the side of the road, near 14-Mile Hill. It's windows were shattered by the stones I found inside the vehicle. It's tires were flattened and oddly enough, a county 19 license plate was still attached. An impound sticker was on a portion of the back window, but was so weathered and faded it was impossible to read -- whatever was written on it had long since vanished.

Anyone who ventures along the dirt roads and two-track trails in Sweetwater County has seen trash piles lazily left to rot in the desert sun. Couches, appliances and entire vehicles aren't unusual sights in the desert. It doesn't take long for those objects to attract bullet holes and other signs of abuse -- sometimes from the same people who dropped them off in the first place.

Why is that? Is it due to the imagined cost of taking something to the landfill. Is it laziness? This isn't an isolated issued, it's something widely seen throughout the county. For all the outdoor recreation groups like Sweetwater County Travel and Tourism and the cities' chambers of commerce promote, it comes across as a tremendous eyesore for anyone wanting to view the wild horse or some of the otherwise breathtaking scenery we have in our backyard.

The county's land use department used to host annual cleanup days to help mitigate dump sites throughout the desert. These efforts would yield several tons of refuse and feature a wide-ranging spectrum of various items.

The county also used to host a bound program where residents could earn a reward for reporting someone dumping their trash on county lands.

Both the cleanups and bounty program ended years ago, but we shouldn't rely on county to take care of the problem.

As Green River gears up for its annual City-Wide Cleanup week, perhaps we should pay attention to the lands outside city limits and pick up the garbage carelessly left by people who seemingly can't be bothered to get rid of it any other way.

It would go a long way in helping promote the beautiful vistas and outdoor opportunities we take for granted.

Letter: GRPD is dedicated to the city

From A4
Yes, I invited this officer into my home; and no, he was unwilling to sit. He stood, he listened, he called in my name and number, and validated what I already knew. In the duration of the time that he spent in my home, I could hear dispatch ask if everything was okay, and he responded accordingly. I've shared a story; with all the controversy that is going on in America and all the nay-sayers about our public forces, there are those individuals who may make bad choices, though I want to express gratitude to the Green River Police force who have dedicated their lives to keep our community safe, to protect our children, as well as stopping by and making me feel like I am safe.

Every officer that I have met in Green River has shown nothing but kindness. I know that this cannot only be here, though I believe that it is worldwide. I think there are amazing individuals that have taken on the responsibility to enforce, and this must be incredibly difficult. I personally want to express my gratitude for the environment that I live in, for the Green River Police force, and their dedication to serve. It was proven by an officer, after a call, that knocked on my door. Officer Stuhmer responded in an effort to alleviate fear. A fear that was so superficial and yet he was still there. He came into the home and represented. He left in the same way, but what he doesn't know is the safety and security that I feel in my home, knowing that he and others that work for the Green River Police force work towards in building a community and an environment that I absolutely am grateful to raise my children in. This is a "shout out" to the Green River Police Department and an opportunity to offer gratitude for the environment that they have worked to encourage. I personally want to share my gratitude to those who are willing and have been willing to serve in Sweetwater County, especially Green River.

A large part of the success of our community is because of them and the enforcement that keeps our family safe.

NEARING RETIREMENT? WHAT QUESTIONS SHOULD YOU ASK?

The recent market volatility has affected just about everybody's financial and investment situations so, if you were planning to retire soon, will it still be possible?

Of course, the answer depends somewhat on your employment situation. With so many people's jobs being affected by the coronavirus pandemic, your retirement plans may also have been thrown into confusion. But assuming your employment is still stable, what adjustments in your financial and investment strategies might you need to make for your retirement?

Here are a few areas to consider, and some questions to ask yourself:

- Retirement goals Now is a good time to review your retirement goals and assess your progress toward achieving them. You may want to work with a financial professional to determine if the current environment has materially affected your goals or if you need to make modest adjustments to stay on track.
- Retirement lifestyle You probably created your investment strategy with a particular type of retirement lifestyle in mind. Perhaps you had planned to become a world traveler when your working days were over. Of course, in the near term, extensive travel may not be possible, anyway, but once we move past the pandemic, your freedom to roam will likely return. But if your investment portfolio is not where you thought it might be, can you (or do you want to) adapt your lifestyle plans? And can you accept the same flexibility with your other lifestyle goals, such as purchasing a vacation home, pursuing hobbies, and so on?
- Tradeoffs Based on your retirement goals and your willingness to adjust your retirement lifestyle, you'll want to consider your options and tradeoffs. For example, would you be willing to work more years than you had originally planned in exchange for greater confidence in your ability to enjoy a comfortable retirement lifestyle? By working longer, you can continue adding to your IRA and 401(k) or similar retirement plan, and you may be able to push back the date you start receiving Social Security to receive bigger monthly benefits. You might also review your budget for opportunities to reduce spending today and potentially save more toward your retirement goals.
- Social Security You can file for Social Security benefits as early as 62, but you can get 25% to 30% more each year if you wait until your full retirement age, which is likely between 66 and 67. As you created your retirement plans, you likely also calculated when you would take Social Security, but you may need to review that choice. If you postpone retirement a few years, what effect will that have on when you choose to take Social Security and, consequently, the size of your benefits? You won't want to make a hasty decision, because once you start taking Social Security, you can't undo your choice.

This is certainly a challenging time to be entering retirement, and you'll have some questions to answer. But even in the midst of uncertainty, you still have many choices. Consider them carefully and make the decisions that work for you.

As If

"For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he."
Proverbs 23:7

Sometimes it is hard to see the good in others, especially when they don't treat us the way we think we deserve. It is all too easy to see others as selfish and mean-spirited. But we usually do better by believing the best rather than the worst about others. Acting "as if" you like someone and they like you is more likely to bring about friendly relations than acting as if they are your enemy. Believing that we can do a difficult task and acting on that belief is more likely to achieve those results than giving in to doubt and fear. This aspect of positive thinking also often holds true when we are talking about global or even cosmic events. Believing that we can change the world creates the impetus for positive social action. And simply believing that the world is a good and safe place changes our perspective on it. A great philosopher once said "The world of the happy man is a happy world."When it comes to questions of faith, sometimes we have trouble believing that God is working in our lives, or even believing that God exists. But sometimes we have to act "as if" God exists in order for us to see that He does exist. Getting down on one's knees and praying is sometimes the only way to open our hearts and minds to the existence of a benevolent God. Act as if you are happy, and successful, and that there is a benevolent, loving and all-powerful God who can help you. Because all of this can be true.

East End
“Excessive Noise” Drives Residents To Protest

East end residents of north Green River complained to the City Council Monday that the noise and clamor resulting from softball games and the loudspeaker system from a cafe opposite the softball park were constituting a decided nuisance. A request was made by the residents that some action be taken to tone down the disturbing factors, particularly after 9:30 p.m.

It was pointed out by complainants, it was said, that the loudspeaker throws musical selections out with such terrific reverberations, and until a late hour, that residents in the east end are finding difficulty in obtaining home comforts, such as quiet for children during sleeping hours. Noise from the softball field after 9:30 p.m., which they declared was contrary to advance agreements in which it was said all games would be terminated in the evenings by 9 p.m., was also declared to be interfering with home quiet.

Senior center reopens

Eva Wagner follows along to a chair exercise video at Golden Hour Senior Center Monday morning. The center has reopened to the public, but with strict limits on how many people can be participating in activities.

By DAVID MARTIN
Publisher

After being closed for more than two months, Golden Hour Senior Center recently reopened to host limited activities for the city's senior population.

"It felt like the world opened back up," Eva Wagner said.

Wagner and her friend Frankie Vaughn were participating in the chair exercise program Monday morning. The two live at Mansface Apartments and struggled as the world closed off in response to the coronavirus pandemic.

"Being confined was depressing," Vaughn said.

Vaughn recently moved to the area from Arkansas, finding Wyoming to be a beautiful place. However, she relocated to the area as coronavirus restrictions took hold, forcing her to follow social distancing guidelines and was unable to meet a lot of people.

For Wagner, the difficulty was with the senior center being a place she visited daily, playing pinochle and eating lunch with friends she's made since moving to Green River from Lovell.

The two did word puzzles and read, waiting for restrictions to ease up.

After the center opened, the two have taken part in many of the activities offered, including Bingo, which meets its 10 participant limit quickly.

Irish Kreis, the activities coordinator for the center, said she expects a wider activity offering in July if restrictions continue to ease.

"People are really happy to come to the center, even on a limited basis," she said.

However, she also recognizes the need to open things slowly as the center primarily deals with people who could be severely impacted by COVID-19.

PLACEMENT OF POLITICAL SIGNS IN THE CITY OF GREEN RIVER, WYOMING

In accordance with the City of Green River Code of Ordinance, Appendix B, Section 10.7, signs of any political party or signs announcing the candidacy of any individual for nomination, are allowed to be displayed without obtaining a permit, provided:

- 1) That the sign(s) do not exceed thirty-two (32) square feet;
- 2) That the property owner has consented to the placement of the sign(s) on their property; and,
- 3) That the sign(s) are removed within ten (10) days after the election for which the sign is intended.

In addition to the specific requirements for political signs, the City has received questions about the placement of political signs on City owned property and within street rights-of-way (generally the area between the private property owner’s fence and the public street, and includes City maintained green space). The City of Green River Code of Ordinance, Appendix B, Section 10.4.C.1, lists “signs located on public property” as prohibited, therefore, all signs (including political signs) located within publicly owned street right-of-way, or other properties owned by the City, are not allowed within the City of Green River. Signs that are found to be located within a street right-of-way or on other City owned property will be removed by City staff.
