

Trappings of Texas next weekend

BY GAIL DIANE YOVANOVICH Managing Editor

Trappings of Texas is back after coronavirus concerns precluded the event in 2020.

The annual celebration of contemporary Western art and custom cowboy gear returns this year from Thursday, Sept. 16 through Saturday, Sept. 18.

Festivities begin Thursday from 5-8 p.m. with a party where visitors can preview the show and get a ballot book for pieces they might want to purchase. Registration and ticket purchase is required.

Old Gringo Coffee and Cocktails will cater the weekend's events, a cash bar will be available, and complimentary beer and wine will be offered courtesy of Robie Golden and

Sam Saenz. Bake Turner will provide live music.

On Friday from 11 a.m.-8 p.m., 22 Trappings artists will demonstrate their skills on the front porch. Admission is waived for those who purchase tickets for either Thursday or Friday night.

Director Mary Bones urged visitors to attend the big opening reception at the Museum on Friday from 6-9 p.m. Refreshments will be offered. The Swifts will provide live entertainment. Visitors can register until 9 p.m.

On Saturday morning, visitors can enjoy a chuck wagon breakfast at Big Bend Saddlery courtesy of owner Gary Dunshee. Registration is required.

The Museum will open at 10 a.m. Saturday, and Museum officials will call the winners who submitted ballots in the hope of being an owner of one of the Trappings of Texas works.

Then from 11 a.m.-3 p.m visitors can see more live demonstrations by Trappings artists and special guests.

"It's a welcome back, and we're going to have e everything here at the Museum," said Bones. "I think we have all been needing celebration and fellowship again."

Losoya named new police chief

BY ROXANNE HILL

At a special meeting of Alpine City Council on Aug. 31, Police Department Captain Darrell Losoya was named police chief, replacing former Chief Robert Martin who resigned.

At its regularly scheduled meeting on Sept. 7, the council had a thorough discussion on the proposed fiscal year 2021-2022 budget and tax rate. Interim City Manager from new property was Megan Antrim, who is $11,712. The amounts

The council also approved a recommendation from the Hotel Occupancy Tax Committee, awarding HOT grants to applicants for fiscal year 2021-2022.

Tri-County Voter Promoters active before National Voter Registration Day

The nonpartisan Tri-County Voter Promoters group is setting up registration tables in various locations in Jeff Davis, Brewster, and Presidio counties in advance of National Voter Registration Day, Sept. 28.

The Voter Promoters will be offering new voter registration and assistance with updating addresses of currently registered voters who may have moved.

This effort is made up of volunteers from Fort Davis, Marfa, and Alpine, and is entirely nonpartisan. Jeff Davis County has a high percentage of registered eligible voters, but the same cannot be said for Brewster and Presidio Counties. The volunteer deputy registrars will appear at various locations in Fort Davis, Valentine, Marfa, Presidio, and Alpine, including the Sul Ross State University campus, with information, forms, and assistance with the fast and simple registration process.

In the state of Texas, librarians are also volunteer deputy registrars, making it easy for anyone to register at their convenience in their local library. The registration deadline for the Nov. 2 election is Oct. 4.

Those who are unsure whether their registration is current can receive assistance from volunteer registrars to find out and make any needed updates.

On Sept. 28, National Voter Registration Day, the Tri-County Voter Promoters will be partnering with Mobile Comunidad in Jeff Davis County. The Voter Promoters will be using their highly visible van to attract area residents to register to vote.

The group can be reached at tricountyvoterpromoters@ gmail.com. Additional volunteers are needed in all three counties, and training is available.

National Voter Registration Day is a nonpartisan civic holiday. First observed in 2012, it has quickly gained momentum ever since. Nearly 4.5 million voters have registered to vote on the holiday to date.

According to 2020 U.S. Census data, as many as one in four eligible Americans are not registered to vote. National Voter Registration Day wants to make sure everyone has the opportunity to vote.

New firearms laws take effect this month

BY BY DON CADDEN Contributing Writer

The Texas Legislature passed several laws in the recently completed session regarding the carrying of firearms. They were signed into law by the governor, and took effect Sept. 1. The laws can be very confusing, and a person would be wise to study and fully understand them before carrying in public.

Here is quick overview of the new laws.

Sanctuary State - Texas is now officially a Second Amendment Sanctuary State. This law prohibits any Texas law enforcement personnel (municipal, county or state), from enforcing any new federal law that does not exist in Texas law. The feds can pass onerous gun laws, and they can enforce them in Texas, but no Texas law officer can enforce or help the feds enforce them.

Hotel Law - Hotels in Texas are now required to allow citizens to carry concealed - or in a closed case - their gun and ammunition when going directly to their room or from their room to car. Guns and ammo may also be stored in the room.

Business Discrimination Law - This law forbids state agencies from doing business with companies who discriminate against those involved in the firearms industry. This was particularly aimed at banks who refused to open accounts for firearms related businesses.

Constitutional Carry - This law received the most attention during the session. It is somewhat complex, and persons choosing to carry a handgun on their person without a License To Carry should carefully study the rules. A person must be able to legally purchase a handgun in order to carry one. Persons under 21 or with certain past law violations are prohibited. Simply stated, this law just makes it legal for law abiding citizens to carry a handgun on their person without a permit, but many restrictions still apply.

Texans have always had the lawful right to carry a rifle or shotgun openly in public. But not until the handgun licensing act was passed in the early 1990s could a pistol be carried legally.

That law spelled out certain requirements including background checks, passing a training class, and fingerprinting. Having an LTC allowed a citizen to carry a concealed handgun on their person, or have it legally in their vehicle. It has always been legal to have one in the home. But the law also spelled out very specifically places that it was not legal to carry, even with a permit.

Subsequent laws allowed citizens to carry handguns in their vehicle, boat, or RV without having an LTC. And in the previous session the law was changed to allow LTC holders to carry their handgun in plain sight in a holster in public.

Probably the most important thing to know for those not licensed who want to carry under the new law is when and where it is legal for anyone - licensed or not - to possess a firearm. Not being aware of this could lead to big legal problems. The list of prohibited places is too long to list here, but is included in the link mentioned below.

One of the questions often asked regarding the new law is why get a LTC now. If a person travels out of state, the LTC is recognized in states having reciprocity with Texas. Additionally, with the LTC and its required background check and fingerprinting, one does not have to go through the federal check when purchasing any firearm.

This only touches on a few important aspects of the new law. Anyone deciding to carry a handgun without an LTC should research further. A free booklet is available through Texas Law Shield, uslawshield.com.

All rights come with responsibilities. If a person decides to carry a handgun, it is certainly worth getting professional training at one of many good facilities. In a critical situation you will wish you had.

Get your ovens ready!

The third annual Jackass Flats Dutch Oven Cookoff and Potluck will take place Oct. 8-10 at the bustling hub that is home to the Little Burro Country Store, 55 miles south of Alpine on the east side of U.S. Highway 118. This year's cookoff brings together a host of artists and musicians, in addition to family friendly events.

All events will take place on or nearby the sprawling grounds of Jackass Flats Improvement Association, which include primitive campgrounds and RV hookups. Guests are encouraged to book their stay through AirBnB or at one of the many neighboring lodging options available.

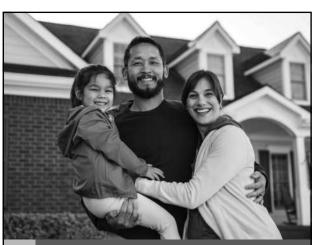

Activities begin Friday at 5 p.m. with horseless goat roping, open to anyone, followed by live music by former Big Bend resident Sarah Burton and San Antonio-based musician Niko Laven. cated just across the highway. Four camps of musicians will be set up all day throughout the Flats premises, and an art show will feature over 20 regional artists at the Tin Barn and Forge Art Show. Notable artists include Tom Curry, Johnny Sufficool, Michele Billings, Michael Vires, and dozens more.

The Tin Barn is a restored historical building, according to Pam Gordon, event operations manager and one of three partners behind the Flats. The building was made using materials from the World War II era airplane hangars in Marfa, and housed early Terlingua Ranch residents in the 1970s.

The day culminates with Dutch oven judging and a potluck, and music by Scott Walker and the Edge of Texas Band. The big headliner for the evening is The Derailers, a classic Texas swing and dance band, taking the stage at the Flats pavilion from 8-9:30 p.m. Gordon said the idea to host a Dutch oven cook-off was inspired by longtime Terlingua Ranch residents who thought it would be fun.

"Last year we had twelve entries. It would be nice to have double that this year," she said.

Cook-off contestants bring all their own materials, including charcoal briquettes, and either cook onsite or wherever they're Breakfast will be offered at the American Legion again on Sunday, with other events including Cowboy Church and gospel music, a skeet shoot, and burro races. The burro races promise to amuse and entertain. Contestants may either walk or run with their donkey or drive it. One contestant has

Miller announces global market assessments

Research offers detailed insight on U.S. export market activity for more than a dozen Texas agricultural commodities.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Sid Miller recently announced the Texas Department of Agriculture has partnered with the Center for North American Studies at Texas A&M AgriLife Research to provide global market assessments for more than a dozen Texas agricultural commodities. These assessments meet highpriority national needs by offering detailed insight on U.S. export market activity, and allows Texas producers to have a competitive advantage on the trade front.

As part of TDA's continued commitment to Texas agriculture, Commissioner Miller called on the CNAS to develop global market assessments.

"As the market evolves, so do we," Miller said. "The demand for Texas agricultural products continues to grow, and it is important to understand market conditions in a rapidly changing global marketplace." A total of 15 reports

A total of 15 reports will be completed by the CNAS team. Final versions will be distributed to commodity boards, state agriculture organizations, and related international trade professionals.

Fifteen commodities will be part of the assessment, including cabbage, catfish, forest products, grapefruit, and more.

"I want to make sure that our Texas farmers and ranchers have the tools they need to successfully take their products worldwide," Miller stated. "We are the 4th largest agricultural exporter in the nation and have a unique opportunity to promote Texas products. We must continue to cultivate relationships abroad to help support our family farms and ranches right here in the Lone Star State."

The final reports can be found at the CNAS website

It appears since the new city council and the new city manager were installed, there have been a handful of critics saying the new officials are failing in operating the city. There was a recall effort on myself and Councilman Martin Sandate that failed. To this date those who signed the recall petition have not once asked us for our side of what we're being accused of. There are two sides to every story.

I have been elected three terms, and Mr. Sandate was elected by the voters of his ward. Whenever leadership change takes place, there will always be changes not everyone agrees on. There are those who are regular critics, and to them I say run for office and be part of the solution.

The city is still up and running more as a team and with more enthusiasm. There are the same critics saying the city manager is lacking in her role there has always been a balanced budget and now it's not.

We serve the City of Alpine because this is our community, too, and we have a love for this city. We are all local, and the majority have been born and raised here with strong ties to our community.

The COVID virus continues to rise across the country and in our community, and it's up to us to try to slow it down before we get to the point of another lockdown, something none of us wants. I have had the two doses of the vaccine in addition to the booster, and I am still standing vertical with no side effects except for a little arm soreness.

Bville.ca

To date from the start of the pandemic we have had 17 deaths in our community, and one as recently as a month ago. Yes, there were underling health issues in some, but the virus was the triggering factor. The vaccine will not stop the virus, but it will lessen the chances of one becoming seriously ill. Let's all do our part and follow good health practices.

School opened up last week, so be mindful of the posted speed limits around the schools, and watch out for our students.

I hope everyone had an enjoyable Labor Day holiday, but there were still those that had to work to keep our country up and running. Thank you!

day.

This week Texans, Americans, and all those who love freedom throughout the world will mark the 20th anniversary of the 9/11 attacks. Already we are bombarded with remembrances, the replay of minute-by-minute telecasts from that day, and the more scientific analysis of what happened to explain the horrific destruction of the World Trade Center towers.

But for myself, my moments of contemplation and prayer on this sad and tragic anniversary will focus on those who gave their lives that day and the loved ones they left behind. This act of terrorism may have occurred in the world's busiest city, but Texans and rural communities throughout this nation suffered loss that day.

A Texan like Barbara Olson, raised in Houston and who rose to become a leading political commentator, was aboard Flight 77 as it was flown into the Pentagon. Daniel Martin Caballero, a Naval Electronics Technician Third Class, and Army Lt. Col. Karen Wagner were working in the Pentagon that morning. All three Texans perished that Flight 93 that sacrificed everything to overpower the plane's hijackers.

SID MILLER Texas Agriculture Commissioner

Texas has given many of its finest young women and men to defend our freedom. Many of them come from our small towns, from farms, and ranches.

In these 20 years since 9/11, over 600 Texans have given their lives in the fight against terrorism. The loss of these heroes is incalculable. It is especially important that we remember them on this day.

In a corner of northwest Harris County stands the Fallen Warriors Memorial. It is dedicated to honor those who made the ultimate sacrifice in the global war against terror. This quiet corner of dignity and peace is where Texans come to understand what we as a people have sacrificed to this cause. At this time of global turmoil, it is our duty as Americans and Texans to not forget why this memorial exists and how, if we are not careful, history can repeat itself.

Whether it be New York City, Pentagon City, Shanksville, Penn., or even northwest Harris County, these places are now hallowed ground, places of quiet contemplation to honor those who died that day and to those who continue to fight a ceaseless enemy opposed to our values and our way of life.

So as we think, as we pray, and as we reflect on these 20 years since 9/11, let's honor those who gave so much for our nation and the principles it was founded upon. Let their deaths not be in vain as we enter the next era where our American freedom is on the line.

God bless those who were lost, God bless their families, and God bless America - still the world's beacon of freedom, still that "Shining City on a Hill."

ETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Medical fitness

Masking is for raccoons and bank robbers, not children. Let's talk fitness. COVID deaths, according to the CDC, are occurring disproportionately among obese or overweight segments of any population, everywhere. In plain English, if you are fat, you are placing yourself at risk.

In 2011 I hauled a busload of pre-K children to the Chihuahuan Desert Nature Center. Not one was overweight. By kindergarten, children already showed signs of obesity.

Last week a grandmother wrote the Avalanche asking the AISD school board to consider requiring masks for children. She said, "When it might help a child stay healthy, and then, by extension, his/her classmates, teachers, family or neighborhood ... "

This grandfather asks the school board to not require masks for the same reason.

There is no pandemic in sub-Saharan Africa. The premise of a Nigerian study is that regular exposure to other infectious diseases subjects the immune system to constant boosting. So does exercise.

If grandparents or older siblings walked younger kids or let them ride their bicycles to and from school, unmasked, in fresh air, we would have fewer fat kids and fewer health problems – not just COVID problems – among all ages and in all neighborhoods.

Should that happen, the Dark Skies Initiative runs counter to child safety and is in fact dangerous. The extra energy used to run street lights could be easily offset by not sitting in lines to drop kids from automobiles. The more adults turn keys, roll up windows, turn on the air conditioner or the heater, and force children to look outdoors through glass, the less resilient children are going to be in life.

Wanting government protection from the cradle to the grave – the direction we are headed - will eliminate the family unit. I would like to see parents break with cultural norms, park their cars, walk to accomplish short errands, and lead their children to a healthy lifestyle by example. It's the school's job to teach, not govern.

Not vaccinated, not masked, not asked.

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT Lilianna Terrazas

What are you especially looking forward to in your senior year?

I am honestly looking forward to graduating and going on to see more of the world.

What activities are you involved in during your senior year?

I am a drum major in the band, I am the vice president of National Honor Society, and I am an active member of the student council.

Who has been your most influential teacher

or coach through high school?

Coach Valenzuela, because he has taught me how to be a good leader, a good person in general, and how to be more optimistic.

What was your favorite moment the last four years?

There is not one particular moment that stands out over the last four years. Truly it is a culmination of all the small moments with friends and achievements that will stay with me as I move on.

What are your plans after high school?

After high school, I plan on going to college to study psychology.

areas like health, science, agriculture, and civic engagement in a positive environment where they receive guidance from adult volunteers and county extension agents.

Alpine resident Kendra DuBois is the Twin Peaks 4-H club manager, and she works in conjunction with Brewster and Jeff Davis county Extension Agent Luke Hendryx. Adult volunteers called project managers oversee the specific projects. DuBois, as a general point of contact, helps keeps things in order, organizes the monthly meetings, and DuBois pointed out that any school age child is welcomed, as participation is not limited to just public-school students, unlike traditional FFA programs.

"For pretty much any interest, there is a project that 4-H can facilitate, so it's a really fun way to have kids interact with each other in whatever their interest is," DuBois pointed out.

For children younger than eight, there is an auxiliary 4-H program called Clover Buds, but they would not qualify to show an animal in the livestock show until they ership and citizenship, along with subjects such as science, technology, engineering, and math.

Turning ideas into action, 4-H youth become everyday heroes who persevere through challenges to leave lasting, positive impacts on their communities.

"There are competitions and projects, everything from food to nutrition, to wildlife competitions, public speaking, leadership, robotics, photography, just about anything you could think of, they have an opportunity to get into one of those projects," said Hendryx. "Even if they are not interested in the agricultural side of it, there are plenty of other stuff that they can get involved with. Sometimes there are limited opportunities for youth out here, and that's one thing that 4H can kind of fill the void." For more information or to sign up, call 432-837-6207.

PUBLIC NOTICE Explanatory Statements for the November 2, 2021 Constitutional Amendment Election

Proposition Number 1 (HJR 143)

HJR 143 proposes a constitutional amendment expanding the circumstances in which a professional sports team charitable foundation may conduct raffles to raise money for the foundation's charitable purposes. The proposed amendment would allow professional sports team charitable foundations of organizations sanctioned by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association or the Women's Professional Rodeo Association to hold charitable raffles at rodeo events.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the professional sports team charitable foundations of organizations sanctioned by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association or the Women's Professional Rodeo Association to conduct charitable raffles at rodeo venues."

Proposition Number 2 (HJR 99)

HJR 99 proposes a constitutional amendment allowing the legislature to authorize a county to issue bonds or notes to finance the development or redevelopment of an unproductive, underdeveloped, or blighted area within the county and to pledge for repayment of those bonds or notes increases in property tax revenues imposed on property in the area by the county. The Texas Constitution gives the legislature the power to authorize an incorporated city or town to issue such bonds or notes but does not expressly give the legislature the power to grant that same authority to counties.

a sincerely held religious belief.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to prohibit this state or a political subdivision of this state from prohibiting or limiting religious services of religious organizations."

Proposition Number 4 (SJR 47)

SJR 47 proposes a constitutional amendment changing certain eligibility requirements for a justice of the Supreme Court, a judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals, a justice of a court of appeals, and a district judge. The proposed amendment provides that a person is eligible to serve on the Supreme Court if the person, among other qualifications, is licensed to practice law in Texas; is a resident of Texas at the time of election; has been either a practicing lawyer licensed in Texas for at least ten years or a practicing lawyer licensed in Texas and a judge of a state court or county court established by the legislature for a combined total of at least ten years; and during that time has not had the person's license to practice law revoked, suspended, or subject to a probated suspension. The same eligibility requirements would apply to a judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals and to a justice of a court of appeals. The proposed amendment further provides that to be eligible for appointment or election as a district judge, a person must be a resident of Texas; be licensed to practice law in Texas; and have been a practicing lawyer or a judge of a court in Texas, or both combined, for eight years preceding the person's election, during which time the person's license to practice law has not been revoked, suspended, or subject to a probated suspension.

tablishing that residents of certain facilities have the right to designate an essential caregiver with whom the facility may not prohibit in-person visitation. The proposed amendment would apply to a nursing facility, assisted living facility, intermediate care facility for individuals with an intellectual disability, residence providing home and community-based services, or state supported living center. The proposed amendment also would authorize the legislature to provide guidelines for these facilities to follow in establishing essential caregiver visitation policies and procedures.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment establishing a right for residents of certain facilities to designate an essential caregiver for in-person visitation."

Proposition Number 7 (HJR 125)

HJR 125 proposes a conamendment stitutional permitting a person who is 55 years of age or older at the time of death of their spouse who is receiving a limitation on school district property taxes on their residence homestead on the basis of a disability to continue receiving the limitation while the property remains the surviving spouse's residence homestead.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to allow the surviving spouse of a person who is disabled to receive a limitation on the school district ad valorem taxes on the spouse's residence homestead if the spouse is 55 ears of age or older at the time of the person's death."

"We chose that because when the Museum opened in 1937, that painting was here in the Museum," she said. She noted many members who created that society were ranching families, and the Museum wanted to recognize and honor those families.

Finally, Antrim provided an update on the ongoing renovation of the old school house, formerly the Sunshine House, a historic building that will house the city's finance and utilities departments upon completion. The hero of Salerno

After the capture of Sicily, the Allies invaded mainland Italy on Sept. 3, 1943. The first landings were made by the British, with an additional landing by the American Fifth Army at Salerno on Sept. 9.

From there the Allies slogged their way up the spine of Italy fighting an offensive war in a county where the terrain was perfect for defense. The prize was the capture of Rome and expelling the Germans from Italy. Italy surrendered to the Allies on the day of the British landings, and at that point Hitler intervened. The Allies found themselves facing the German, not Italian, army.

The American Army chose Salerno because of its proximity to Naples and the large port there, the primary target of the landings. The landing beaches were also close to bases in Sicily that could supply air support, and the harbor allowed transport ships to anchor close to the beaches for easier off-loading. This entire enterprise was known as Operation Avalanche.

The landing took place along a broad 35 mile front with three assault divisions

GREEN by larry francell

- the British 46th and 56th. and the American 36th Division. The 36th Division was known as the Texas Division, and had a long history and association with our state. Currently commanded by Major General Fred Walker, it was organized at Camp Bowie in Fort Worth in July 1917 in the mobilization for World War I. The division saw action in France and remained in Europe for occupation duty. Initially constituted of both Texans and Oklahomans, after the war the 36th was reorganized as the all Texas division, adopting an arrowhead with a "T" superimposed as their identification patch. After transport to North Africa for advanced training, the 36th Division was the first American combat unit to land in Euthe Germans.

So, to the point of the story. Often seeking the big picture we miss the important stories that strike close to home. One of the men who landed at Salerno with the 36th Division was Sgt. Manuel S. Gonzalez from Fort Davis, one of the most decorated Hispanic soldiers from Texas in World War II.

Upon landing at Salerno, Gonzales alone took out four machine guns nests, a mortar squad, and a German 88, probably the most feared and effective artillery piece in the German arsenal. In the process he was wounded, but kept going.

Wounded by shell fragments in the chest and arm. Gonzales later reported, "I was so wrapped up in what I was doing that the machine gun bullets didn't mean anything more that flies buzzing around me, and the shell bursts were like thunderclaps. There didn't seem to be anything personal about them."

Although wounded, he stayed with his unit, and at Monte Casino, when his company commander was wounded, he took rope in the effort to defeat charge of his platoon and knocked out a German tank with a bazooka before being wounded again. For all his heroic endeavors he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, a Silver Star, and Purple Heart, plus numerous theater and victory medals. He was recommended for the Medal of Honor, but the award was never made.

> After the war, Gonzales returned to Fort Davis where he worked as a stone mason. Never receiving the recognition that was his due, he died Nov. 9, 1947. The Fort Davis Veterans of Foreign Wars Post was named for Gonzales, and after most of the members passed on, the building was donated to Jeff Davis County by the state VFW organization. Renovated, it is now the County and District Clerks Office, but retains the Gonzales name.

> A statue of Gonzales in full battle dress, created by the artist Bill Leftwich, himself a tank commander in World War II. stands on the northeast corner of the Jeff Davis County Courthouse, a permanent reminder of the heroism of Sgt. Manuel Gonzales. You are invited to stop by.

Sports Panthers win in trenches

BY GLENN MCCARTHY Sports Correspondent

The Fighting Alpine Buck faithful turned out in Fort Stockton in carloads last Friday night at a windy Panther Stadium. Too bad for the Buck fans that Alpine had no answer for a strong Fort Stockton run game, and quarterback Dom Aguilar's five-touchdown night, falling 46-10. Once again Alpine was playing up a classification in rival Fort Stockton, hailing from 2-4A Division DI.

From the first drive of the game, the Panthers established control on the ground and ran all night, amassing 387 total rushing yards. In comparison Alpine did not have a positive yard until their third drive of the night. Buck Quarterback Jayden Canaba was pressured all night, and was stunned during the second quarter when a Panther defender caught him mid-throw. Canaba had two interceptions and no touchdown passes, with Panthers pursuing him out of the pocket throughout the game.

his touchdown running clinic on the second drive of the game for the Panthers when he exhibited both speed and power. Speed, outrunning the Buck's down their own sideline, then power, barreling over three defenders into the end zone, 7-0.

The Bucks had nothing but negative yards on their first two drives. Plagued by bad snaps all game and starting their first drive at the 15, a loose snap back to Canaba forced the Bucks to punt from their own oneyard line. A beautiful 60yard Canaba rugby style punt pushed the Panthers back to their 39 yard line. That is when Aguilar started running, and he could not be stopped all night long.

Aguilar's partner in crime was his stocky sophomore tailback

In the first game, Alpine was set to take on the Wildcats, who are coming off a 40-5 record with five returning seniors. In set one of the three set play, the Lady Bucks lost 25-12. The Wildcats made short work of Alpine, winning the next two sets to setup the bracket play with Klondike.

Immediately following the blowout from Wink, Alpine took to the court and seemed to still be off in their game. The Cougars put up a hard fight in set one, and led the Lady Bucks 26-24. Set two ended worse than set one, with the Lady Bucks getting beat 25-19.

After a few player changes by head coach Rick Garcia, the game started to turn around in set three. The Lady Avalanche spoke to lead hitter Novah Carrasco on her thoughts about the issues on the court.

She said, "We were not communicating as a team, and that's what led to the loss against Wink. Versus Kondike we had our passes up, and were eager to make kills. We fought hard to the end. I loved the way we played those last three sets. Now we continue to prepare for district."

Coach Rick Garcia said, "It was a great example of what I have been telling the girls. When your number is called, be ready to perform. Alicia and Kylie did just that. Their numbers were called, and they responded. Great win for the team. The loss gave us a look at what we need to work on as individuals and as a team."

Lady Bucks fall to Compass

The Lady Bucks battle Compass Academy on Sept. 7 in Alpine.

BY J.T. MARONEY Publisher

The Alpine Lady Bucks took to the court on Sept. 7 to face off against Compass Academy from Odessa here in Alpine. The packed house made for a stifling hot gym that did either team any favors. The Lady Bucks came out aggressive in the first set. They led by as many as five points, but the kills from Carleigh Jones, a junior at Compass, plagued the team the rest of the set. Jones had 15 kills, one block and three aces that Alpine was not able to break. Alpine would go on to lose set one 18-25. Critical errors and breaking serves continued to be a challenge for the Lady Bucks during set two as Compass continued to chisel away at the score board. After a couple of time outs and a rotation change to regather the girls in hopes of turning the score around, Alpine was too far behind to catch the Cougars.

With the start of set three and acute awareness, 3-5 best of play, the girls from Alpine ran hard on the court.

Coach Rick Garcia said, "I am pleased with the team's growth heading towards our first district match. We still need to make minor adjustments. The biggest challenge is playing together

Ali Maroney went 6/10 hitting/7/8 serving, Adayna Garcia was 4/9 hitting/one block/one ace. Indulging in Southern decadence

What do you think of when you hear the words Southern food? Do you conjure up visions of collard greens, fried chicken, buttermilk biscuits, or something else? While I'll admit all of those suggest a delightful vision and set my tastebuds to watering, I think of shrimp and grits. It just doesn't get much more Southern than that.

Being a food show junkie, I watch a lot of cooking shows and have seen numerous takes on shrimp and grits. While I have not replicated any of these recipes, I have indulged in this decadent delight. Let's face it, I love rich and self-indulgent food.

During a trip to a travel conference back in early 2020, I had the opportunity to visit Boerne's own Peggy's on the Green restaurant located in the historic Kendall Hotel. Let me tell you, that is a treat. I have eaten out at many restaurants over the years, but this was quite frankly one of the best experiences I have ever had.

The owner of Peggy's is Mark Bohanan of Bohanan's Prime Steaks and Seafood located in San Antonio. A native Texan, he took his inspiration of Southern cuisine north to Boerne, and opened Peggy's on the Green, named after his late mother. His shrimp and grits are a recipe I would love to be able to re-create, but without classical training would probably take many false starts.

LOOKING BACK Alpine Avalanche

Serving the Big Bend and Davis Mountains Country

September 30, 1971

Among those enjoying the barbecue hosted by Global Land Corp. at Davis Mountains Resort last Saturday afternoon were Mrs. Warren Friend, at right, and Jean Glasscock of the Avalanche. The resort land was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Friend, who continue to ranch in the Davis Mountains.

Strange bugs on tomatoes

Dear Neil: These insects have appeared on our green tomatoes. We've never seen them before. What should we do?

These are immature leaf-footed bugs (Leptoglossus phyllopus), close relatives to stinkbugs. They have similar piercing mouthparts. They will suck the fluids out of your ripening tomatoes, and cause yellow spots in the fruit in the process. They are also vectors for tomato diseases. Spinosad offers reasonably effective organic control, or some people actually vacuum them off the leaf surfaces with a shop vac. Sevin (carbaryl) gives good control as well. Dear Neil: We have a lovely oak that we may have planted too close to the house, 12 feet from the nearest corner. Its roots are growing on, or very near, the soil surface and they seem to be growing toward the house. We love the tree, and we really don't want to have to take it out. Is there any solution?

Yes. Work with a certified arborist this fall once the hottest weather has passed. Have a barrier installed to prevent the roots Dear Neil: How can we address poison ivy that has invaded mulched beds around our oak trees?

Assuming there are no other plants than the poison ivy and trees in those beds, you could apply the broadleafed weedkiller 2,4-D by itself (as opposed to mixes containing two other active ingredients). The additional herbicides are active in the soil and through tree roots, while 2,4-D is not. As long as you apply 2,4-D under low

SEPTIC SERVICES

DO NOT WAIT until your septic system shows signs of failure to have your septic tank pumped out!

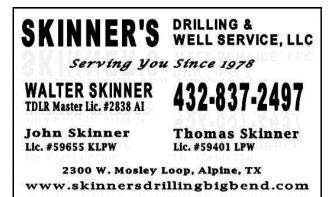

Waiting can mean complete clogging and an expensive septic system repair bill. Periodic septic tank pumping is far less costly than septic tank repair or replacing the entire septic tank system.

We recommend septic system cleaning every 2-5 years. Remember: Maintenance is much cheaper than replacement!

We have Special event rentals, monthly construction rentals, handicapped rentals and wash stations. We also service holding tanks. bstoilets@hotmail.com
